

Satellite radio is a new service that offers tremendous variety, including many types of broadcasts that are not available on traditional radio. As an American citizen and avid satellite radio listener, I object to any actions by the FCC that would limit the content that any satellite radio provider might broadcast.